ABOUT THE WORLD TOURISM FORUM Institute

In collaboration with our host nations, the World Tourism Forum Institute is reshaping economies through tourism development. We do this by working with countries that have untold tourism stories to share, as well as countries with already established tourism industries that are seeking to drive the narrative about their current and future success. Our aim is to reduce the negative impact of tourism, by increasing the more positive impact of sustainable development goals in tourism globally.

As the leading international tourism development and investment brand, the World Tourism Forum Institute, is a London, UK-based organisation, committed to promoting countries in the fields of tourism development, economic growth, FDI through tourism investments, and human resource development within the industry.

The World Tourism Forum Institute creates a legacy for the host country, by way of carefully selected and tailor-made initiatives aiming to promote the country's image internationally, create greater visibility and determine the industry's objectives through soft power. These experiences - from Global Tourism Forum conferences, WTFI's masterclasses, and international media promotions - are designed to strengthen the nation's brand abroad, as well as highlight the importance of the tourism sector in the economic landscape.

About

Leaders Summit Brussels

Taleb Rifai
Secretary General of WTFI

“Investment, Connectivity and Hospitality”

The need for a paradigm shift in global tourism existed long before the SARS-CoV-2 pandemic. The very success of international tourism, with five times the number of trips in 2019 compared to the year 1980, often made a mockery of the idea of hospitality and ran in many places a juggernaut over local nature, local culture, authenticity, diversity and serendipity, negatively impacting satisfaction levels of all stakeholders involved. Gigantic cruise ships, all-inclusive resorts, overcrowded beaches and disneyfied tourist cities are all examples of forms of tourism organisation which in effect prevents meaningful guest-host encounters and do not help to fight seasonality and its consequences of low yield, low wages and seasonal employment in many European destinations.

By 2019, overtourism, ecological degradation and increasing protests of host communities already signalled the need to change the structure of global tourism. The pandemic has increased the perception of the importance of travel and tourism for the global economy and provided a chance to pause and rethink the future of tourism.

The Leaders Summit Brussels is the right place at the right time to review what has been done already and even more importantly what still needs to be done to move forward to a more meaningful and sustainable tourism in Europe and around the world, to balance the interests of hosts, guests, employees and owners of service provider companies in hospitality and tourism and not least the environment.

The dialogue between political and industry leaders from European and global countries, organisations and companies will help to find new ways to use the tools of digitalization, training, and empowerment and of political support and guidance to not only find a way out of the crisis, but to move forward to a new, better 'normal'.

Global tourism leaders gather in Brussels to discuss a new era in Travel and Tourism

Under the theme “Investment, Connectivity and Hospitality”, the Global Tourism Forum Leaders’ Summit Europe 2022 kicks-off on September 6th at the Radisson Collection Hotel, Grand Place Brussels.

The full day event has brought together over 40 top high-level speakers to boost and support the start of a new era of growth for the Travel & Tourism sector for Europe and the world.

European Commissioners, EC Director General and Directors; the most important representatives of the European Parliament; Ministers of Tourism from Asia and Africa; CEOs of major airlines, hotel Groups, technology providers as well as prominent European destinations and Travel & Tourism value chain European and International Associations get together in brussels to speak with one voice to address the challenges and opportunities faced by the Travel & Tourism ecosystem in the post-pandemic world and be at the forefront of a ‘new era’ of tourism trends, offering new options to a new generation of travelers, as well as opportunities led by digitalisation.

The Summit raised the the most important matters faced by the sector, such as the sector’s vision on smart tourism, the green transition, new trends in mobility; investment models for travel & tourism, sustainability, gender equality & women empowerment or how digitalization & blockchain technologies shape tourism.

"Together we are stronger to boost and support the start of a new era of growth for the Travel & Tourism sector for Europe and the world"

Ismail Ertug

"Tourism is a major economic activity in the EU with wide-ranging impact on economic growth, employment and social development."

José Ramón BAUZÁ DÍAZ

"We should claim tourism in Europe as an economic engine ahead of a potential recession. The next few years are crucial and other countries are ahead of us. I urge the EU leaders to promote European tourism and mitigate the effects of the energy crisis in the sector. The EU must be capable of offering attractive and affordable products and selling our continent to the world. Starting by creating a true European brand that attracts visitors from the rest of the world and put tourism in the centre of our economies. Tourism can, once again, play a fundamental role in this crisis and the European Union cannot lose the opportunity."

"A well-functioning and well-connected market, underpinned by strong competition is essential. These principles are at the heart of the European transport system. Our role as regulator is to ensure that new operators can enter the market with new business models and ideas, to help drive innovation and sustainability. This in turn will create opportunities for the transport and tourism sectors, businesses and consumers alike."

Eduardo Santander

"Today in Brussels we are discussing how to shape Europe's tourism future in the best way. As travel to European destinations finally restarts in full swing, the sector is already facing the old problems with capacity and management. The EU must lead the way fostering best practice sharing and new forward-looking policies, which put people – local citizens, travellers, workers – as the top priority. Still, I am confident that tourism in Europe will prevail and continue thriving."

"We need to work together to make travel & tourism part of the solution in the fight against climate change". The global initiative aims to accelerate the transition to net zero of this very important sector, while driving action to protect nature and supporting communities. Millions of MSMEs need knowledge, tools and support to be climate neutral. Youth, academia, NGOs, destinations and all stakeholders should be part of the process ... we were delighted to share the initiative in this very important forum in the capital of Europe ."

"A sustainable tourism industry is a must for Europe and the airline industry is determined to play its part. Airlines are committed to achieving net zero by 2050. Accelerating and scaling up the availability of Sustainable Aviation Fuel (SAF) will be critical in the transition to net zero and represents a fantastic opportunity for Europe. With the right policy framework and incentives, SAF production will help to improve energy independence, create new highly skilled jobs and guarantee a sustainable future for aviation and tourism."

Peter Gerber

"Brussels Airlines, part of Lufthansa Group, is clearly committed to becoming CO2-neutral by 2050. However, a global level playing field for aviation must be ensured by European policy makers."
